WASHINGTON — Jesting allusions about a spring house-cleaning are NOT appreciated around the Treasury Department these days.

The expression has too ominous a connotation.

A few weeks ago the Internal Revenue service came under fire. Disclosures of campaign contribution-seeking activities in the Detroit Collector's office brought into the open charges of similar operations in Philadelphia, whispered suspicions against still others.

As a result the entire service is being subjected to a fine tooth-comb.

Now the Customs Service has fallen under the frigid eye of Secretary Morgenthau.

Extremely serious evidence implicating a number of employees in the New York headquarters has been uncovered. Secret Service agents put on the trail found their moves circumvented.

Someone in Washington apparently was in cahoots with the conspirators, gave them advance tips on the government agents.

A searching probe of the Treasury followed. It resulted in the amazing discovery that the suspected New York employees had tapped the Washington telephone line, were listening in on secret instructions from the Treasury to the Secret Service.

Whether the impending guillotining will be a public affair, or the heads will be axed off quietly, still is undecided. It will depend on whether the evidence obtained warrants criminal prosecution.

In either event the Customs Service is in for a thorough overhauling. Young Henry Morgenthau is determined to clean house.

Honest Eddie

Morton Downey, radio's crooner, is a great friend of his fellow Irish-American, Eddie Dowling, now running for the Senate in Rhode Island. In fact, they grew up together. Says Morton of Eddie:

"For twelve years he was an after boy and never stole a candle."

Japanese Parity

With the Fleet foremost in the public eye, the State Department is jockeying with Britain and Japan for early naval treaty negotiations. But there is one serious fly in the ointment.

Japan demands naval parity with the United States. Actually she wants a fleet strong enough to dominate completely Asiatic waters—a fleet which will give her a free hand in China regardless of the Western world.

This may be parity or a little less than parity. Usually the Japanese ask for more than they need, figuring on getting less. But in this case, what they will expect in naval strength is going to be a lot higher than anything the United States and Great Britain will be willing to give.

This is why there is about as much optimism regarding the proposed preliminary naval discussions as there is about the present Disarmament Discussions in Geneva.

The State Department is leaving no stone unturned which might bring naval limitation. But it looks as if the next naval conference was dead even before it began.

Boomerang

The Stock Market Bill's chickens already are coming home to roost. Several Congressmen who opposed the bill are hearing about it from their constituents.

The amazing thing is that Democratic leaders who tried to crack the whip when the Bill was threatened are now rushing to the rescue of their once wayward colleagues.

Speaker Rainey, always gracious, always imbued with the milk of human kindness, has gone to the support of Congressman Bulwinkle whose North Carolina district has revolted partly because he stood with Wall Street.

Even George Huddleston, of Alabama, sabotaged essential portions of the bill in the secrecy of committee but favored it publicly, got a letter from Rainey

CLOSING MARKETS TO BE REPORTED

A new service to its readers was started today by The Herald in cooperation with the John W. Eshelman & Sons Milling Co.

Every day the closing grain markets, including wheat, corn and oats, high, low and close for July, September and December will be reported. The Eshelman Co. receives the closing markets between 1:15 and 1:30 p. m. and has willingly agreed to furnish the reports.

Prices paid to farmers will also be included.

FIVE BANDITS GET $40,000

Abandoned Car Found By Police After Mail Holdup In Pennsylvania.

NORRISTOWN, Pa., June 1.—Hot on the trail of the five gunmen who execute a $40,000 mail robbery at Conshohocken this morning, police here today found the automobile used by the bandits in their audacious holdup.

The abandoned car, a stolen sedan, was discovered across the street from the courthouse.

The motor was still running. The mail sack, stolen by the bandit quintet was inside the automobile. The payroll money had been hastily removed and letters from the bag were scattered over a seat.

The gunmen, all dressed as laborers, were masked with black stockings and parts of window curtains. Each carried a gun.

Police authorities believe they were well informed as to the value of the Friday registered mail delivery as well as to the fact that Chief of Police Francis Blake was off-duty today.

Desperate, Says Human Bomb, "But Not Crazy"

ALAMEDA, Calif., June 1.—I am not crazy. I was just desperate.

Thus did poverty stricken war veteran and father of three children plead with authorities today when they placed him in the Alameda-co hospital for observation.

Wired as a "human bomb" with 40 sticks of dynamite, Bennett held scores of policemen and hundreds of spectators at bay in the Alameda-co hospital for nearly twenty hours.

In his hand he held a switch connected to a maze of wires which led to the arsenal of dynamite in his automobile.

He threatened to release the switch and "blow myself to kingdom come," and he defied police to "come and get me."

After hours of persuasion by officers who risked their lives by entering the "danger zone," Bennett finally uncoiled the wires which were entwined about his wrists and legs and surrendered.

Hundreds of residents in the highly populated Neptune beach district were endangered when Patrolman William Pries discovered the infernal machine in Bennett's car.

House Cleaning Helps for the Thrifty Housewife

Just a glance through the classified advertising offerings in this afternoon's paper, Madam, and see for yourself just how helpful they can be at this season.

Here's a man who will repair any or all of your rooms at moderate cost. There's another man who will put the furnace in good working order again after the hard winter. In the same column you'll find a carpenter offering their services and another suggesting a glider for your porch.

Space does not permit us to enumerate all the opportunities to be found in the classified ads. But a few minutes' reading will convince you that these columns are a real house cleaning aid.

The majority of state cases were sent either to the grand jury or the county jail. Some paid fines and costs and were released.

The city cases include: disorderly conduct, 8; intoxication, 18; drunk and disorderly, 7; turning in a false alarm, 1; hit-skip motor

5 Infants Get Contract For Appearance at Fair; Doctor Combats Illness

Father Signs Contract For Un-named Amount for Century of Progress Promoters; Removal Up to Backwoods Doctor.

CALLANDER, Ont., June 1.—The quintuplet baby daughters of the Dionne family here were definitely enrolled today for personal appearances at Chicago's Century of Progress exposition.

While Dr. A. R. Darro, wise old backwoods physician, was successfully combating a sudden illness that attacked the five infants in the early hours today, their father, 31-year-old Oliva Dionne, was signing the contract.

ALL MUST SURVIVE

It is a contract contingent on the survival of all five of the babies. No other set of quintuplets known to medical history has ever lived beyond the first hour.

With the money he hopes to receive, Dionne plans to pay off the $3,000 mortgage on his farm, and provide better clothing, food, and care for his five new babies and five other children. The family is poverty stricken.

Neither Dionne nor Father Dan-

CLIFTON, FRITZ AGREE TO PAY $4,275 COSTS

Damage Suit Brought by Willard Massie, Ironton, Settled Thursday

RESULT OF DEATH

Judge Young Holds Dunkle is Incompetent

The $25,000 damage suit of Willard Massie, of Ironton, against E. E. Clifton, this city, and J. E. Fritz, Portsmouth, was settled out of court, Thursday, for $4,275, the defendants dividing the amount.

Clifton and Fritz also agreed to pay the costs of the case with the exception of fees to witnesses called from Ironton which Massie agreed to pay.

The settlement came after a morning of discussion. The jurors appeared as scheduled to resume hearing testimony of witnesses but after lingering in the corridors of the court house all morning were sent home.

It is reported both Clifton and Fritz are protected by insurance sufficient to cover their loss.

AFTER WIFE'S DEATH

Massie sued for the amount as a result of his wife's death in an automobile wreck near Bay's tourist camp. The Massie car was in an accident and Clifton's wrecker was called to remove it from a ditch on the west side of the highway. While the wrecker was parked off the road, Fritz' automobile, southbound, struck Mrs. Massie.

Both defendants filed motions to be released from any blame to Judge Atkins with his ruling. C. A. Leist was the local attorney for Massie while Charles Gerhardt was Clifton's local counsel.

HELD INCOMPETENT

Judge C. C. Young, of probate court, ruled Friday that Daniel F. Dunkle, Circleville-twp, is incompetent by reason of mental disability and should have a guardian. The ruling came after Judge Young studied testimony taken in a two-day hearing two weeks ago.

Dunkle's two sons and daughter, Wright and Leland Dunkle, and Mrs. Mabel Bolender, withdrew as his guardians. They will serve until a new guardian has been appointed and qualified.

TWO NAMED

Clarence J. Try, this city, has been appointed executor without bond of the estate of his late mother, Tid S. Try. The estate is valued at $2,600, $2,100 of which is real estate. Appraisers are W. H. Neuding, Harry Stout, and Harry Johnson.

The estate is divided between Mrs. Try's two sons, Clarence, this city, and Arthur, of New Orleans. The will was written Nov. 19, 1928 and was witnessed by C. A. Weldon and Harry Johnson.

PROBATE RECEIPTS TOTAL $3,658.49

If the juvenile court would be removed from the jurisdiction of probate court the latter would be self-supporting, officials in that office declared Friday in disclosing receipts for the year.

Collections amounted to $3,658.49.

Other figures reported for the year include:

Marriages, 228, with 227 of them white; January was the best month of the year with 29.

Wills admitted to probate, 56; Number of estates relieved from administration, 20; commenced 111; closed, 86; authenticated copies of wills, 10; letters of testamentary, 53; letters of administration issued, 54; letters of administration with will annexed, 4.

Assignments, 5; Adoptions, 3;

Letters of guardianship, 8; Insane, 2;

Incompetent, 7;

Persons sent to state hospitals to Columbus, 1; feeble-minded, 2;

Number to reform schools, 1;

girls, one, aged 13; two, aged 14;

boys, one, aged 14; one, aged 16;

one, aged 17.

BOY, 15, DROWNS

COLUMBUS, June 1.—Thrown into a small pond at Linworth, near here, when his boat upset, Franklin D. Lotte, 15, was dead today, a drowning victim.

His four companions also were thrown into the water but all were saved except the Lotte boy. The body was recovered.

Set New Air Mark

Jean Batten, 24-year-old English girl, who set a new record from London to Australia. The daring ladybird lopped five days from the previous record held by Amy Mollison, whose husband taught Miss Batten to fly.

Three deaths here were attributed to the heat.

Another full day of intense heat was in prospect, with a blazing sun shining down from cloudless skies upon the parched farm lands. There was still no promise of rains to relieve the severe drought conditions.

Temperatures generally in the middle west will soar near the record heights of yesterday, when readings of 100 degrees or more were common, weather Forecaster C. A. Donnel announced.

111 DEGREES IN IOWA

While Chicago baked in a record May temperature of 98 degrees the mercury topped the 100 degree level in other parts of Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Kansas. The highest official reading, 111 degrees, was reported at Inwood, Ia.

The temperature reached 106.3 degrees at Minneapolis, 110 at Aberdeen, S. D.; 108 at Rockford, Ill.; 107 at Eau Claire, Wis., and 104 at Peoria, Ill., and Ottawa, Ill.

Intensified by the heat wave, crop destruction by the long continued drought grew to acute proportions in ten great farming states.

The only hope of rainfall held out by weather forecasters was for meager local showers in scattered areas of the affected region. Meanwhile crop experts, after surveying the growth, damage, disease and care that only copious rainfall can save the country.

EMBARGO PLANNED

Gov. Floyd B. Olson of Minnesota one of the states hardest hit by the drought, said he planned to issue an embargo on livestock being shipped into the state to preserve what feed the drought has spared for Minnesota cattle. He planned to issue the embargo today, affecting all cattle, hogs and sheep.

Alarming reports from all parts of the corn and wheat belt sent grain prices soaring here on the board of trade. July wheat closed here at $1.02 3-8, a rise of five cents. July corn jumped 3 7-8 cents to close at 60 7-8 cents. It was the first time wheat had passed the dollar mark here since last August.

Shortages of feed and water brought a heavy shipment of live-

STATE BEGINS RURAL RELIEF

More Than $300,000 Distributed Through Rural Counties of Ohio.

COLUMBUS, June 1.—With the distribution of a second $300,000 among counties of the state, the rural family recovery program swung into full stride in Ohio today.

A like amount was allocated to the various counties for the last half of May, and today the state relief commission announced distribution of $300,000 for operation of the program during June. The commission also announced allotment of $2,000,000 among the counties to finance FERA works division projects during June.

Almost 100 per cent acceptance of the rural recovery move was reported to commission officials yesterday at a meeting of all county rural recovery supervisors, according to H. H. Hughes, director of the program in the state.

Every county—except Cuyahoga and Hamilton counties, the two which are almost completely urban—now has a full-time county supervisor, and distribution of horses, cows and seeds and other phases of the recovery move are proceeding swiftly, Hughes said.

WILLIAM HEFFNER REACHES 92 TODAY

William Heffner, E. Mount-st, observed his ninety-second birthday anniversary, Friday.

Because of his health the event was a quiet one. Mr. Heffner received a number of cards and bouquets.

He has been a lifelong member of Trinity Lutheran church and has been a member of the vestry for 71 years.

Included in the city cases are 38 arrests for traffic violations.

Money collected by the mayor totals $685.25, $344.70 going to the city treasurer and $340.55 to the county treasurer. In May alone Mayor Cady collected $103.70 for the city and $42.40 for the county.

The majority of state cases were sent either to the grand jury or the county jail. Some paid fines and costs and were released.

Straw-board '9' Retains Its Standing; Wins 10-7

The Container Corporation of America team with Rayme Brungs pitching good ball defeated the McClaren Meats, Thursday evening, by protecting an early lead. The final score was 10-7.

The McClarens put on a three run rally in the final half of the ninth frame but fell short of tying the score. One man was left on base.

The straw-board, undefeated in the league, counted four unearned runs in the first inning when Dick Smalley, McClaren center fielder, had his first difficult inning of the year. Watson singled to open the inning and Trimmer popped in front of the plate to the catcher. George Brungs walked and Stevens filed to center for what should have been the second out. Smalley misjudged the ball then let it go through his hands. Walker's liner handcuffed him for another error and the runner went to third before the ball was retrieved. He scored on a passed ball while W. Brungs was fanning and Brannon after reaching base on an infield error was out trying for third on a short passed ball.

The McClarens scored one in the first on a left field error, a dropped ball at third and an infield out.

SCORE OFTEN

The straw-board scored again in the third and counted three in the fourth while the Meats tallied twice in the third and once in the fourth session. No scores were counted with the score 8 to 4 until the eighth inning when the C. C. of A. outfit crossed the plate; they also scored once in the ninth before the Meats rallied.

A single by McClaren, a triple by Hill, a single by Buskirk and a triple by Denny accounted for the runs.

Brungs pitched four-hit ball until the ninth inning when four more bingles were added. Although the straw-board scored 10 runs it had only seven hits off Leonard Buskirk, the latter's faulty support getting him into trouble.

Watson with four bingles led all the hitters.

Tonight the Given Oils and Eshelman Feeds meet in a postponed game.

PETILLO ENTERS DAYTON'S RACES

Qualifying Star of Indianapolis Event to Drive On 5-8 Mile Speedway.

DAYTON, June 1.—The newest big league auto racing ace to enter a mount in the opening program on the new five-eighths mile Dayton Speedway, Sunday, June 3, is little Kelly Petillo of Los Angeles, Calif., one of the fast drivers in this year's Indianapolis Speedway "500."

Creating a sensation at qualifying trials at Indianapolis when he averaged 119.329 miles an hour for the 25 mile run, Petillo was awarded the coveted pole position. Handling his Miller racer like a true veteran, although he is yet a youngster in the game, Petillo was heralded as another Frank Lockhart and bids to become one of the nation's over-night sensations.

When he roars away from the starting tape here June 3, only four days after the Indianapolis classic, Petillo will be at the wheel of the trim little Joe Marks-Miller Special which carried him to a string of spectacular victories on the famous Ascot Speedway in Los Angeles.

Petillo's addition to the Dayton Speedway entry list is another indication of the fine field of starters lined up for the local premier. Other Indianapolis stars and drivers from the national champion ship circuit are promised to fans attending the Sunday opening.

Barnhart Writes For 'Canning Age'

EDITOR'S NOTE.—The following article, written by C. R. Barnhart of the "Canning Age," was printed in the "Canning Age" publication in the interest of the canning industry.

The classification of accounts for Commercial Canners, given herewith, can be easily changed by adding to or eliminating such accounts as may be necessary for a Commercial Cannery operated by an individual, partnership or corporation.

The classification is so arranged that each class or subclass of accounts can be extended to make as many subdivisions of each account as may be necessary to meet the needs of each class of operator or owner.

Mrs. George O. Thurn Gives Six Delicious Dishes For June Luncheons and Suppers

Dear Friends in Circleville:

Among recent recipe requests which have come in, are so many for dishes which make admirable party foods, either as the main dish of a luncheon or simple dinner, or as desserts. I am also giving you menus on the page which will help solve June entertaining problems. Remember in reading these menus, that you ought to adopt them to your own needs, leaving off one course, if they seem too elaborate, or substituting some other dessert for the one I have suggested.

FACTORY OVERHEAD

Factory Overhead Expenses represent a class of expenses that do not vary to any great extent with the quantities produced, but remain as fixed charges each year and are to be pro-rated in accordance with quantity produced.

BASING WAREHOUSE EXPENSE

Warehousing Expense Accounts represent a class of accounts into which are charged the items of expenses that pertain to the storing, labeling and shipping of the finished product. The Warehousing Expense Cost should be based entirely on goods handled and shipped out.

Selling Expenses should include all expenses directly chargeable to selling, such as transportation charges on samples, value of samples used, salesmen's salaries and expenses, brokerage and commission, etc. Sales Discounts or discounts allowed may be included in your selling expense or under general overhead expenses, but should not be overlooked in determining the producing cost.

Expenses directly chargeable to advertising should be segregated from selling. Each canner should treat advertising as his particular situation requires, but the total cost of advertising should be recognized in determining selling prices.

Magazine Editor's Note.—During the recent Canners' Conference at Columbus, O., the author of this article delivered an address on cannery costs. His extemporaneous remarks created such an impression on the attending canners that he was unanimously requested to prepare a detailed Classification of Cannery Costs. Through the good offices of Secretary Roy Irons copies were made available to members of the Ohio Canners' Association and to CANNING AGE, through whose pages they will receive the national distribution they deserve.

The installment published herewith contains Mr. Barnhart's prepared Classification of Accounts for Commercial Canners. In the next issue of CANNING AGE we will present his "Cost Chart for Commercial Canners" which contains further details covering Direct Manufacturing Costs, and Factory Overhead, Warehousing, Selling, General Overhead and Advertising Expenses.

Whether or not you have a good system of bookkeeping you will find valuable ideas in Mr. Barnhart's cost system.—The Editor.

Sauces for Your Spring Desserts

This cauce should be very cold when served, and is delicious on cake or pudding.

Apricot Cream Sauce

Two egg yolks slightly beaten; one fourth cup granulated sugar; one fourth cup juice from cooked, dried apricots; grated rind of one half lemon; one cup cream whipped stiff.

Mix sugar, juice and rind and beaten egg yolks and cook until thick. Chill thoroughly and combine with the whipped cream.

Mint Syrup

This is delicious on fruit ices or vanilla ice cream.

One cup water; one half cup white table syrup; green coloring; one half teaspoon mint flavoring; one cup sugar. Combine the one cup of water, sugar, syrup and cook over moderate heat until the drops of syrup flow together in a stream from the spoon. Remove from the heat, add green coloring and when cool add the flavoring.

Caramel Sauce

This is delicious on plain rice pudding, plain cake, or ginger bread.

Two thirds cup white table syrup; one and one fourth cups brown sugar; three fourths cup evaporated milk; four tablespoons butter. Cook all together in a double boiler for three quarters of an hour. Cool and then beat for five minutes. This recipe makes two cups.

Chocolate Fudge Sauce

One cup sugar; one half cup boiling water; one half teaspoon vanilla; one and one half squares (ounces) of chocolate; one tablespoon butter; two tablespoons white table molasses.

Melt the chocolate over hot water, add the butter, syrup, boiling water and sugar, stirring constantly. Finish cooking over direct heat, boiling three minutes. Cool and add vanilla. Serve hot or cold. If it stands too long and becomes too thick, heat over water a little. Delicious to dress up plain cupcakes, or to top ice cream, or a parfait.

ASTOR TEA

You can't resist the second cup greens for about one hour. Enough for six large servings.

Scrambled Eggs With Peppers

Two tablespoons shortening;

three tablespoons chopped green pepper; one third medium sized onion, grated; one fourth cup grated cheese; one fourth cup cream; five eggs slightly beaten.

Melt the shortening, add the pepper and onion, and let cook one minute together. Then add the cream, cheese, and last the eggs.

When well blended, serve on buttered toast triangles, with a slice of crispy broiled bacon on top of each serving. Popular as a lunch dish, or for late after-bridge supper.

Butterscotch Rice Pudding

One third cup of rice; three cups milk; one cup brown sugar;

three tablespoons coarsely ground blanched almonds; one half tablespoon gelatine; two tablespoons butter; one half tablespoons salt.

Wash the rice, scald the milk in the top of the double boiler, then add the salt and rice and set it over the hot water and cook until the rice is nearly tender.

Caramelize the brown sugar with the butter until dark brown but not burnt. Add to the rice with the almonds, and cook until the caramel is melted and the rice is very tender. Soak the gelatine in one third cup of water until soft,

pour over it one cup of hot milk, stir until dissolved, and strain into the cooked rice.

Have ready freshly boiled, hot,

sliced potatoes, enough to make a quart; pour over them one half

cup of melted butter mixed with one and one half tablespoons of

lemon juice; toss lightly, without

too much breaking up.

Then pour on the mixed dressing. Garnish with the whites of hard cooked eggs, cut in rings and sprinkle with minced parsley.

There are so many calls for veal birds, that I am repeating this recipe; it may be varied according to the leftovers in your refrigerator.

Some cooks like chopped mushrooms as stuffing, and then they serve the birds with a tomato sauce.

Two tablespoons shortening;

two onions; one cup soft dry bread crumbs; one half teaspoon salt;

one fourth teaspoon pepper; one tablespoon minced parsley; one and one half pounds veal sliced

very thin; one half cup dry bread crumbs; one and one half cup half cup minced onions; one cup tablespoon butter; one teaspoon salt; one cup brown sugar;

one cup water; one cup tablespoon paprika; one fourth teaspoon white pepper; then add alternately and beating well, one half cup olive oil; one fourth cup vinegar or lemon juice; one tablespoon grated onion. Just before serving add one cup whipped cream to this dressing.

Have ready freshly boiled, hot,

sliced potatoes, enough to make a

quart; pour over them one half

cup of melted butter mixed with

one and one half tablespoons of

lemon juice; toss lightly, without

too much breaking up.

Then pour on the mixed dress-

Barnhart Writes For 'Canning Age'

The classification is so arranged that each class or subclass of accounts can be extended to make as many subdivisions of each account as may be necessary to meet the needs of each class of operator or owner.

HELPS WITH TAX RETURNS

This classification will give the required information necessary in making out Income Tax Returns and the furnishing of the desired data for Real Estate and Personal Property Tax returns. It will also give the complete data for returning the cost of estimated cost to pack the several products.

The purpose of any classification of accounts is to clearly distinguish between different general classes, and also to distinguish between their several subdivisions. Property Investment Accounts represent Land, Buildings, Machinery, Equipment, and other property of a permanent character. Automobiles and Trucks are typical of a class of property which cannot be classified as permanent, but which should be considered in the property investment account.

Depreciation Reserve Accounts should be kept for each class of property, charging depreciation expense and crediting Reserve for Depreciation with the annual depreciation of each class. The individual machine method for determining depreciation on the several classes of Machinery and Equipment has been found very satisfactory.

But also remember, and this I repeat to you so often that it surely must have become a household maxim by this time; have one green vegetable at least, one raw fruit or vegetable, something sweet, some form of cereal in bread, rice, macaroni and similar dishes, and a fish, meat or chicken, unless there is a nut or cheese or egg dish included. And there should be milk for the children to drink, or cocoa made with plenty of milk.

There are so many calls for veal birds, that I am repeating this recipe; it may be varied according to the leftovers in your refrigerator. Some cooks like chopped mushrooms as stuffing, and then they serve the birds with a tomato sauce.

Bermuda Potato Salad

First mix the following dressing; mash finely the yolks of two hard cooked eggs; add to them one half teaspoon English mustard; one teaspoon salt; one half teaspoon paprika; one fourth teaspoon white pepper; then add alternately and beating well, one half cup olive oil; one fourth cup vinegar or lemon juice; one tablespoon grated onion. Just be

Chocolate Icing

One square (one ounce) unsweetened cooking chocolate; two cups confectioner's sugar; five tablespoons evaporated milk.

Combine the melted chocolate and sugar. Then add the milk gradually, beating until smooth and creamy. Frost two eight inch layers. Decorate cake with halves of walnut kernels.

Walnut Drop Cookies

One fourth cup shortening; one cup granulated sugar; one egg; one cup chopped walnut kernels; one teaspoon vanilla; two and one half cups flour; one cup salt; one third cup sour milk.

Blend the shortening and sugar.

Add the egg, well beaten, and mix thoroughly. Add walnuts and vanilla and then the mixed and sifted flour, salt and soda alternately with the milk. Drop from a teaspoon on a greased cookie sheet two inches apart, and bake at 400 degrees F. hot oven for ten to twelve minutes. Makes three and one half dozen cookies.

ALL-BRAN RELIEVED HIS CONSTIPATION

Delicious Cereal Brought New Health to Mr. Bartholomew

We quote from his voluntary letter: "I had considerable trouble with my stomach. Digestion was out of the question. I took medicine which gave me only temporary relief.

"Then I thought of taking ALL-BRAN. I started eating a cereal dish full two or three times a day.

"It has been over a year now since I ate that first dish of bran, but from that day to this I have had the pleasure of enjoying the proper functioning of the digestive organs.

"Thanks to ALL-BRAN. I still eat it regularly and like it better all the time."—Lester Bartholomew, Cadillac, Mich.

Constipation is usually due to lack of "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to promote elimination. ALL-BRAN supplies both, as well as iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. Certainly this food is more natural than taking harmful patent medicines. Two tablespoonsfuls daily will usually overcome most types of constipation. With each meal in chronic cases. If not relieved in this way, see your doctor.

Stricter Regulation

THE necessity of effective steps being taken to check the "alarming increase in highway fatalities and injuries" has caused Thomas P. Henry, president of the Automobile Association of America, to propose a definite program for accomplishing this.

More strict regulation of the operation of automobiles is needed, he believes, if any progress in highway safety is to be made. A four-point program designed to accomplish this, he said, will be submitted to the annual convention of the association next month. It calls for:

1. Sound and uniform motor legislation, including a strong drivers' license law and a safety responsibility law.

2. Comprehensive and fundamental traffic engineering to keep the facilities for motor transport abreast of its needs.

3. Vigorous enforcement of all motor laws and regulations.

4. Systematic education of motorists and pedestrians, adults as well as children.

The increase in the number of road accidents, he stated, "can be ascribed in some degree, at least, to an increase in car operation in terms of mileage; to the millions of obsolete and poorly maintained cars on our streets and highways; to the growing inadequacy of our highways to carry the high-speed traffic of today and to the large number of youthful drivers operating family cars without the requisite discipline and restraint."

The greatest cause, however, he believed to be "in the fact that neither as a nation nor as communities have we organized on a basis that is anywhere near what is required to meet one of the most crucial problems."

It is obvious that somewhere something is lacking. Highway safety has become a national problem of critical importance. Despite laws and regulations, attempts to educate motorists in safety rules and other measures the slaughter continues to increase.

It would seem that a token payment would be better than nothing.

Baseball's Recovery

WHILE its teams are supplying amusement to millions of Americans, it is timely to take a look at organized baseball to see what it has accomplished in the line of recovery.

Figures and other data furnished by Joe F. Carr, promotional director of the National association, establish the fact that its record in this respect is one of the most outstanding in the entire national picture.

Funds were supplied by the National association and the two major leagues. Among the results was, says Mr. Carr, "that at the beginning of 1933, every league that finished the 1932 season was stabilized and well financed and three new leagues were organized, which functioned successfully through 1933, and for the first time in many years not a single minor league failed." All leagues that functioned last year still are operating and six new leagues have been organized. The baseball program, the promotional director then explains, has been brought practically up to the 1926 standard, notwithstanding heavy amusement taxes in many states that have served to cut down attendance.

The clubs have endeavored, he says, although not operating under a code, to employ as many players and others as possible and to maintain as high pay standards as the business would permit. In addition to the two major leagues, 20 minor leagues are functioning and 10 more are called for in the program for next year.

Organized baseball has come to be an important industry in the United States. The millions of Americans who patronize it will be glad to know that it has made necessary readjustments and is established on what appears to be a solid foundation.

CHAPTER THIRTY-SIX

Nevertheless, he gave something to John Harmon, satisfied some inner craving, quieted some restless uncertainty within him. When days came, as they always did, and words lost their magic and became a mere disconnected scrawl—when those other days came and they seemed possessed of the devil and threatened to carry him away with them into dangerous irrelevance—then he sought the bookshop and found there what he needed—a return of courage and inspiration; or a sense of restraint and stability, as the case might be.

Stanley liked to have him come, liked to know that while she was busy with customers, wrapping up books, he was there in the back, talking with Felix Rose. She felt that once again, in some intangible way, she had given him something as, indeed, she had.

Coming home together in the late dusk, they would usually find Perry or Nigel Stern or Dennis St. John, or more often all three, waiting for them in the room on East Ninth Street. Then there would be food and cigarettes and an hour of delicious talk and relaxation, before the steady warmth of John Harmon's fire.

They discussed everything except the new Gloria. John Harmon had even refused to read a line of that to Stanley.

"It's like beginning all over again," he confessed to them soberly, "and I'm as nervous as hades about anyone seeing it. It may be quite awful, you know. If it is, Dennis will be to blame."

"I don't mind in the least," she would retort languidly, "it can't be as awful as the other was, futile."

But as a matter of fact the novel that was taking shape slowly but surely under John Harmon's freshly purged inspiration was neither awful nor futile. It was good and in his innermost heart John Harmon knew that this was so; but he had suffered and he no longer took things for granted. He wrote carefully and with a great deal of humility and with a real fear of the too-easy phrase, the too-facile thought. He was done with surface finish—he was plunging into bedrock. He was striking his roots deep this time—that they might bring forth enduring results.

And then there was this matter of Drew's engagement. Of course, Stanley might know about it already; of course she might not care at all. But on the other hand—

Well, anyway, Marcia had called up Gerda Lessing and they had come to call on Stanley and now they were having tea in front of her fire and exclaiming over the pewter teapot and the primroses and the Governor Winthrop desk.

"I suppose this is just the sort of thing that would happen to you," Marcia was saying to Stanley, stirring her tea in its shallow pink cup. "You've never done things like anyone else and apparently being poor is no exception. You've never been like the rest of us. If one didn't like you so well, it might be annoying. So much has happened to you since we were in school, those years abroad, meeting all kinds of interesting people, and now—a clever husband and this unusual way of living."

"Don't you ever miss the other sort of thing, though?" a sly old Gerda smoothly, in her sleek, cool voice. "Don't you get bored with being poor?"

"I miss not having lots of clothes and plenty of hot water and breakfast in bed," admitted Stanley, passing Marcia the toast. "But that's so little compared with what I don't miss. I was much more bored with being rich—and forever following at Aunt Julie's heels."

"I understand she's made a very good marriage," offered Marcia.

"Yes, she wrote me that she had suggested I might have done as well if I had used better judgment."

"She would. Well, she's always been fortunate in finding someone to support her."

"My dear, she's made a business of it!" Gerda interpolated quickly.

"All the same, Stanley, I don't see how you had the courage to run away and be actually poor—I'm quite sure I should have followed your Aunt Julie's advice and married the most convenient bank account within reach. You could have so easily!"

"Meaning Perry, I suppose?"

"Well, yes, if you will be per-

Marcia looked about her, frankly curious. She had not come entirely for tea or to see Stanley. She could have tea at any number of amusing places and she saw Stanley quite often now at Nigel Stern's or going to see Stanley lived, to renew an about with Perry; she had come to Having done this most enthusiastically, she put more wood on the fire, boiled water for tea and set out the shallow pink cups and the pewter teapot.

That lie above the surface which we see,

Waiting to smile on you and me;

Don't grope along with eyes upon the ground;

When beauty hovers all around;

A shovel or spade were made for the earth

And there alone they prove their worth;

But a man was fashioned to look on high—

To love and hope and pray but never die

And watch the worlds go whirling by.

'Tis in the universe which moves above

That man can see the wonders of

A Ruling Hand which owns no fault or flaw,

Still governed by unchanging law;

But here upon the earth he daily meets

The vile and mean in busy streets

Or in the bogs where want and squalor dwell

And only of their misery tell—

All these but leave upon the soul their scars;

Out there is Saturn sashed with light and Mars,

Look up, O Man, unto the stars.

Smiles Sweet for U. S. Fleet

Who wouldn't want to be a sailor with a couple of "welcome-homers" like this waiting with the bright smile and the glad hand? The girls are Miss Fanne Wade (left) and Miss Anne Bauer, two of the New York society girls who arranged the U. S. Fleet Ball to welcome the navy to New York after Presidential review.

U. B. LADIES' AID ELECTS OFFICERS

The May meeting of the Ladies' Aid society of the United Brethren church was held Thursday afternoon in the Community house, with approximately fifty members present.

During the business session officers for the ensuing year were elected. Mrs. William Cady was named president; Mrs. Clyde White, secretary; Mrs. Montford Kirkwood, treasurer; Mrs. Charles Richardson, finance secretary; Mrs. Ralph Long, pianist, and Mrs. Ivey Greeno, chorister.

A memorial service for deceased members was then conducted by Mrs. Ralph Long and consisted of a reading, "There Is No Death" by Mrs. Montford Kirkwood, in memory of Mrs. Mary Rowe; a vocal duet, "No Disappointment in Heaven," by Mrs. Ivey Greeno and Mrs. William Hegele, in memory of Mrs. Gladys Valentine.

Mrs. Myrtle Trimmer then read Mrs. Elizabeth Peters' favorite psalm in memory of her, and Mrs. James Pierce and Mrs. Ralph Long sang "We'll Never Say Goodbye in Heaven" in memory of Mrs. Zeimer.

Mrs. Long read the philosophy of life in memory of Frank Hussey which concluded the service.

Refreshments were served by the May committee at the close of the meeting.

THREE ARE HOSTESSES AT PARTY FOR BRIDE-ELECT

Misses Helen and Eleanor Snyder Pinckney-st, and Miss Dorothy Clark, E. Main-st, were hostesses at a charming morning bridge party, Thursday at Ye Old Home-stead.

The affair honored Miss Elizabeth May, bride-elect of Mr. Robert Dickerson Workman whose marriage will take place June 7.

Beautiful baskets of roses and peonies decorated the rooms where bridge was enjoyed at four tables during the delightful hours. Miss May was presented a lovely gift when favors for high score in the card game were awarded Miss Evelyn Adkins and Miss Catherineine Smith.

The happy hours spent at the card tables were concluded when a dainty lunch was served. Miss Miriam Hitchcock and Miss Briggs were winners of high score favors.

Miss Grace Steele, S. Court-st, will be hostess to the club next week.

BRIDGE CLUB ENTERTAINED

Mrs. Mildred Karshner, E. Main-st, entertained two tables of bridge at a delightful party Thursday evening at the American Hotel Coffee shoppe. Guests were members of her club and Mrs. Fred Dauenhauer.

Mrs. Clarence McAbee and Miss Lucile Crist were winners of high score prizes.

A delectable lunch was served after the game.

The club will meet the next time with Miss Katherine Mead, Logan-st.

Lutheran Church's Annual Summer Bible School Opens Monday Morning

The annual Bible school of Trinity Lutheran church, conducted every summer, will open Monday, June 4, at 8:30 a. m. to extend over a period of three weeks. The school is dismissed each day at 10:30 o'clock.

All children between and including the ages of 5 and 16 are permitted to enroll. There is no tuition nor any other set charges through the course. The brotherhood of the church is financing the school.

The following varied course of study will be offered: Bible story period, object lesson period, hand work and construction work period, "Know Your Bible" period, recreation period, and a novelty period consisting of Biblical games, picture puzzles and dramatization. All these subjects will be presented to the children in an interesting manner.

The following competent teachers will be in charge of the school, Miss Mary Seal, Mrs. Avery Eichinger, Miss Martha Reid, Miss Lucy Seal, Miss Margie Merz, Miss Virginia Caskey, and Rev. G. L. Troutman.

There will be two main departments, primary and junior.

On the last day a picnic will be held for all pupils.

This is the eighth consecutive year that Trinity Lutheran church has conducted such a school and this year's school promises to be bigger and better.

Debt Message Read to Congress
As European Nations
Prepares Defaults.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—President Roosevelt told Congress and the world today that it was American dollars, wrung from American taxpayers, that furnished the "vital means" for the successful conclusion of the World War, and the American people expected to be repaid.

Mr. Roosevelt's long-awaited debt message went to capitol hill at a time when the debtors, who owe the United States some twelve billions of dollars, apparently are preparing again to default on their obligations, due June 15.

The president proposed no new legislation. He merely reported to the congress the status of the various debtors, reiterated this country's willingness to discuss new settlements with any applicant, and concluded with a rather pointed admonition to the defaulters to the effect that the American people expect to be repaid.

Kunats was scheduled to appear before Grove City municipal officials last night, but called 15 minutes before court was due to close and asked continuance until he could appear more conveniently. His request was granted.
